Largest Crowd Ever Sees Boro Fireworks

Spectator Gives Encomiums to All Who Insured Fourth's Success

MORE OF HONOR ROLL

By THE SPECTATOR
There was only a lone and low-hung planet peering through the huddled clouds which hovered over the Narberth playground on Fourth night, but there was nary a drop of the rain which was pelting the shore vacationlands, and so it came to pass that our fireworks demonstration provided another memorable evening for the distinguished archives of our Independence Day celebrations.

In fact, there were many who said it was the best ever, the experience of previous years having been utilized to assure a greater array of show-pieces, and the police gentlemen stated that the crowd was more numerous than that of any other occasion.

Many, many thanks are due those who aided so splendidly towards the notable success and conspicuous among those on whom the merit medals should be pinned are the aforesaid gendarmes; our highly helpful firemen, in their dual capacities of guards and collectors; the members of the ball club and also Harvey Cook and Art Cooke. The latter stalwarts are not kin as to blood, but they certainly are in their devotion to anything which pertains to the weal and welfare of their home place and so this public praise of their always excellent and effective procedure is but a small part of the generous recognition which is their due.

The collection on the field was less than last year, despite the larger crowd, and the explanation is that we did not have a sufficient number of men to pass the pans, as there is only a short interval in which this can be done with propriety, and we missed a substantial addition to our surplus because of a real lack of interested aides.

Very particular mention should also be made of the superb contribution of Clarence Wunder, who provided the best amplifying system we have ever heard and who made no charge at all for his extraordinary services. We cannot claim to have any special facility for comprehending Friend Wunder, as he has his own ideas about doing things, but we are going to try hard to understand him better, as our hats should always be off to men who have the will and the way to get things done, of whom the world has

Mrs. Mueller Hostess to Executive Board

Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller, of Essex avenue, entertained the members of the Executive Board of the Narberth Fire Company at dinner Monday evening in honor of the president, Tristan B. du Marais, who is leaving shortly to spend the summer in Villanova at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice B. du Marais, of the Old Barn, Villanova, who are spending the summer in Europe. Those present were Mr. du Marais, Dr. William Howard, Thomas Merkle, George B. Supplee, Charles V. Noel, John A. Miller, Albert Nulty, William H. Durbin, Harry H. Hollar and James Purse.

A business meeting followed. The next meeting of the Board will be Monday evening, August 3 when there will be a delegation of active firemen present.

Our Town is Located at 209 Haverford Ave.

Yes, OUR TOWN and the Livingston Publishing Company are located at 209 Haverford avenue. The new telephone number is Narberth 4100.

Several prospective callers hunted for the office in vain last week because no signs had been erected. No signs were up because renovations were being made to the front of the building. Also some of the more superstitious failed to visit the office because they would have been forced to walk under the painters' ladders.

Soon it is hoped OUR TOWN will have a clear doorway and nice new signs announcing its present location.

Ranger Lodge Boys Find Maine Woods Stir Up Great Appetite

Editor's Note: This is the first of series of letters from the boys at Ranger Lodge, Casco, Maine.

Seventy-five Rangers arrived in Casco on schedule time Friday afternoon, just in time to indulge in their first plunge in the refreshing waters of Pleasant Lake. In spite of the fact that the sky was slightly overcast, the spirits were not dampened as the bracing waters revived the traditional Ranger Lodge Spirit. Counselors established their boys in cabins and the first "Taps" of the season saw a tired but happy camp eagerly anticipating the new camp season.

Saturday proved to be a busy day in several respects. The boys scampered eagerly about the property, admiring the new canoes and sailboat, and getting their baseball mits and tennis rackets out. In the meantime the men busied themselves installing the swimming wharves and launching the boats. Before the morning was far spent, Bobby Narrigan had a ball game in action and Harry Middleton was trying out one of the new canoes. If one had chanced to cast his eye about the campus, he would very probably have seen "Ace" Quinn in shorts and brilliant polo shirt checking up on trunks and equipment. The first official swim call was greeted by an enthusiastic bunch of boys, who clamored down to the float to really "try out the lake."

Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Club Installs New Administration

A new president, vice-president, secretary and three new directors were installed at Tuesday's meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club at the Overbrook Golf Club.

In taking over the presidency, Alexander J. Esrey, Bell Telephone Company official, said much of the club's success was traceable to the many past presidents who still hold membership.

New vice-president is William James Drennen, principal of the Narberth schools; secretary, Dr. F. Munro Purse, Narberth osteopath; directors, Eugene H. Davis, Dr. Richard C. Mears and James P. Carroll. Mr. Carroll is the retiring president.

Officers continuing in their posts are Henry Keim, treasurer, and William S. Howard, sergeant-at-arms.

Travel Club Exceeds All Previous Records

111 Enrolled on Narberth Library's Summer Cruise of Globe

NEW "FIRESIDE SHELF"

The Travel Club of the Narberth Community Library has once again broken all previous membership records. One hundred and eleven boys and girls have begun their summer travels by way of books since opening day, June 16. The 1935 record for the entire summer was ninety-nine.

Registration by schools is: Narberth Public School, 71; St. Margaret's School, 25; Merion Public School, 7; Cynwyd Public School, 3; Merion Catholic School, 1; Academy of the Sacred Heart, 1; Penn Wynne School, 1; St. Joseph's School, 1; Wynnewood Road School, 1.

Speed in traveling is not a virtue that is counted when prizes are given out in November. Nevertheless, there is always good natured rivalry among some of the members each year to see who shall be first to circle the globe.

Two children finished their journeys in the least possible time, ten and fifteen library days, respectively. Mary Lou Haldeman, second grade, Narberth Public School, and Bill Wolfe, fifth grade, Merion Public School, Sammy Buchanan and Jean Sargent, both of Narberth, had also completed their travels by July 6.

The fine selection of reading material made by Bill Wolfe is given below:

Narberth Ends First Half in Fourth Place

Brookline Wins Game and League Top; Davismen Held to 2 Hits

2ND PART STARTS 18TH

By JOHN MULLIGAN

Now that the Main Line League first-half has been stored away by Brookline, Gene Davis' Narberth team can settle down to do some serious planning for the latter edition. If the homesters have any hopes of being in that playoff series they must snap out of their lethargy as soon as the second-half marathon gets underway on Saturday, July 18.

Manager Davis already has done something in an attempt to strengthen the borough club. George Gazella, brother to Mike, former Yankee's third-sacker, has been playing recently at the hot corner. Davis is angling for another pitcher, one who can cope with the strength of rival teams. Johnny Jackson, who hurled the Davismen to the championship two years ago, pitched one non-league game and there is a strong possibility of his being the pitcher Davis is searching for.

Nothing to Lose

Narberth had nothing at stake when it went into its Fourth of July double-header last Saturday. The only thought in the boys' minds was to upset Brookline and prolong the race, but Eddie Hare's team shut out Narberth, 3-0 on the home lawn. The Davismen defeated West Phillies, by a 10-7 score in the morning game and thus ended the half in fourth place. Sunday Narberth hooked up with Scanlon, of Philadelphia, and after holding a 3-0 lead until the eighth, blew it to the visitors, who eventually won out by an 8-3 count.

Since the league race won't commence until the 18th, the locals will play two non-loop tilts over the weekend. Tomorrow the Davismen will clash with Stonehurst here and will meet Berwyn Sunday on the same grounds.

Bill Reynolds, veteran righthander, hurled Narberth to its decision over West Phils in the A. M. tilt on the Fourth. The locals won with much more ease than the score might indicate. Reynolds struck out four and walked three. Ray McCauley, on the hill for Ed Sullivan's outfit, was tagged for 13 hits. He fanned two and allowed three tickets to first.

Mickey Gavin and Johnny Brennan were the leading sticksmiths for Narberth. Gavin collected three hits, one a home run in the third with the bases bare. Brennan also hit for the circuit, his homer occurring in the fifth also with none aboard.

Seyern Tough

Narberth found Georgie Seyern a hard nut to crack in the big afternoon battle. Only two hits were the Davismen able to get off his air-tight delivery and were able to reach third base only in the sixth and seventh. Jack Eachus, with a double, and Tan Ralston, who got a single, were the successful borough batsmen.

Narberth worked up a promising rally in the seventh, but it came to naught. Johnny Brennan was safe on an error at third. After Mickey Gavin skied to center Eachus poled his double. However, with two down since Harry Fox had bounced out to start the inning, Pitcher Al Herrmann ended it by tapping one to the pitcher's box.

State-Borough-Township Dog Quarantine Over

The dog quarantines are over State, borough and township. The Pennsylvania restrictions were lifted last week. Monday night at a joint meeting of representatives of the Lower Merion and Narberth Health Boards, it was decided no further restraint was needed, the rabies' epidemic having run its course.

At the meeting in the Township Building, Ardmore, were William P. Landis, president, and Dr. George W. Grim, of the township health board, and Dr. George A. Sloan, president, and George B. Supplee, health officer, of Narberth's board.

During the quarantine since February 17 there were 25 cases of rabies, 88 persons were reported bitten, 525 stray dogs were captured and 253 killed.

Lower Merion Needs Added Junior High

Downs to Prepare Building Plans; School Enrollments Increase

BANK NEW DEPOSITORY

"An additional junior high school, not only to relieve prospective Junior High School congestion, but to make possible a readjustment in the elementary schools" is needed. Lower Merion's superintendent of Schools, S. E. Downs, stated in his report before the Township School Board at its July meeting. Later, Mr. Downs plans to submit a detailed discussion of this problem.

Recently the Board purchased the Barker property, adjacent to the present junior high, which would be available as a site for a new building. Also some years ago Cynwyd School holdings were increased for possible use as a junior high site.

Increases in enrollment were reported in nearly all the schools, especially in the senior and junior high schools and in the Cynwyd school.

In the absence of the president, E. E. Burlingame, Mrs. J. C. Sellers, vice-president, presided.

It was learned from Mr. Downs' report that the State championship high school band's trip to Cleveland was oversubscribed by about $250.

Let's Tear it Down

As mentioned by The Spectator elsewhere in OUR TOWN it was felt by some residents a pity that Narberth's firemen were so efficient in confining to the roof the Fourth of July blaze at the vacant house next to the Narberth Theatre.

This building, as it stands, is a fire trap and should be condemned by the authorities unless it is razed or remodeled and tenanted. Standing as it does between a built-up residential section and a business section the run-down house constitutes a considerable hazard.

With new building going on apace and with home seekers in abundance reported, it does seem that no borough houses should remain vacant for any length of time. A long-antennated building tends to depreciate property and rental values and increase insurance rates.

Friends Serenade Couple Returning From Honeymoon

The marriage of Miss Margaret Shipley Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Sims, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Mr. Filmore Armstrong Hale, of Narberth, took place on June 30, at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Thad Lewallen, at 4:30 P. M., in Winston-Salem. There were no attendants.

Upon their return from a wedding trip on July 4 to their home at 13 Brynwood Court, Narberth, their friends greeted them with a serenade consisting of weird sounds on ukeleles and tin horns and whistles outside their home until early Sunday morning. Mr. Hale is a partner of F. A. Hale, Inc., 635 Lancaster avenue, Bryn Mawr.

Thirteen Scouts Invested in Ceremony Wednesday at St. Colman's

A new Main Line Boy Scout troop came into being at an investiture ceremony held in St. Colman's Hall, Ardmore, on Wednesday evening. Thirteen boys were taken into the troop, which is called Ardmore No. 4.

The troop, sponsored by St. Colman's Holy Name Society, has Thomas J. Joyce of 206 Edgewood avenue, Ardmore, as its scoutmaster, while Isaac McConnell, 3d, of 105 Coulter avenue, Ardmore, serves as assistant scoutmaster.

Scouts invested in the new troop Wednesday include Francis Cairns, William Blackledge, John Joyce, Daniel Cairns, Joe Sweeney, William Greenfield, Bernard Johnson, James O'torney, John McGovern, Thomas Love, Les Olsen, William Kennedy and William Kearney.

The troop committee includes the Rev. James A. Brogan of 110 East Lancaster avenue as spiritual director, Horace Cunningham of 21 Church road as chairman, Joseph Gallagher of 231 Linwood avenue, publicity; W. Franklin Keough of 100 Church road, advancement; Alfred D'Amora of 191 South Wyoming avenue, outdoor activities; John McConaghy of Lancaster and Wyoming avenues, reading; Charles Loughrey of 201 Grandview avenue, civics, and William J. Doyle, Jr., of 223 St. Georges road, treasurer.

HAVERFORD BUILDING

Building construction in Haverford Township, particularly in the class of new dwelling houses, has shown a forward movement this spring, according to I. Walter Danley, township building inspector. During April there were permits issued for 21 single homes and seven twin dwellings, to be constructed at a cost of $240,700. During May the total was nine single homes and one twin house at an aggregate of $72,400. June has also seen the inauguration of dwelling construction which bids fair to maintain the month's rating.

Romance of the Pen

Long ago, there was written an aphorism which tells us that the Pen is mightier than the Sword. At that time, the great little writing-tool was made exclusively from the same material as was the weapon. Before the steel pen was introduced to the world in 1803, by an inventor named Wise, a sharpened goosequill served as a pen. The gold pen came twenty years later from another man, named Hawkins.

The historical records do not give much of an account of Messrs. Wise and Hawkins. It seems that they did little to develop their inventions, leaving that to an Englishman by name of Joseph Gillott—who was born in 1799, and passed away in 1873. In Sheffield he learned the trade of a cutler—in which calling nearly everybody was engaged, in one way or another.

Gillott became famous as a most skillful forger and grinder of knife-blades. When he tempered them, they were of just the proper degree of hardness. They took a keen edge, and kept it for a long time. As a craftsman, he seemed to excel all others. His aptitude was a gift.

But there came a time when the cutlery business flagged and the great works at Sheffield were idle. Fearing that his livelihood was to be taken from him by the fates, Gillott sought employment in Birmingham, where he learned of Mr. Wise's invention, and decided to improve it. He saw in it great commercial possibilities and a living in it for himself—if he could produce it in quantities.

So he set about the making of steel pens—cutting each one by hand with a shears, and finishing it with an ordinary file. Such a process seems to challenge the most vivid imagination. See him, working in the attic of an old house in a back street—beating the steel to the needed thinness; cutting slivers of the metal to a uniform size; tempering them and bluing them in an ordinary frying-pan, over a charcoal fire.

His only helper was a woman, who worked with him in secret, toiling away, turning out the tiny points for an income less than a common laborer's. But like an engine-driver, his head was out of the window, his hand was on the throttle—and he was looking ahead, down the pathway of progress.

He persuaded a Birmingham stationer to buy a few dozens of the new-fangled writing instruments. For each point he received a shilling. They were curiosities—and interesting. Customers bought them to try and found that they worked; and came back for more. It was a success, that attic business—and Gillott couldn't turn out his pens fast enough.

So at night he worked, by candle-light, on a simple device for cutting and finishing his merchandise. In that he succeeded—at the same time making it possible to reduce the price to four pence the gross. Then business increased in leaps and bounds. He built a factory, then another and another. In a very few years he employed five hundred hands.

That works is still operating every day, turning out uncountable "nibs," as they are called in England. It employs thousands. This writing is no advertisement; but ask any artist if there is the equal of a Gillott crow-quill pen for making a pen-and-ink drawing. He will surely shake his head horizontally.

Gillott became an art patron and a picture-fancier. His collection of paintings was as fine as any private gathering in all England. He used to love to visit the studios of struggling young painters, buy a canvas at an extravagant figure, carry it away himself—and hide it in his garret, unless it held genuine merit. In that assortment was found, after his death, some veritable gems of the brush. So his judgment wasn't infallible.

He collected, also, violins; and owned some famous ones. His pictures and his fiddles sold for a million and a half dollars in the auction held to settle his estate. He organized a benevolent association for his

For Monday and Tuesday, Manager Joseph Conway has booked a new print of Will Rogers' success, "A Connecticut Yankee," the amusing Mark Twain fantasy about King Arthur's times.

Then Wednesday and (Bank Night) Thursday, "Florida Special" will roar from New York to Miami, with thrills, laughs and romance given by a cast that includes Jack Oakie (talkative news hound), Sally Eilers, Kent Taylor, of "Magnificent Obsession" laurels, lovely Frances Drake and Sam "Hello Stranger" Schlepperman.

To conclude the week in a blaze of glory, Ouida's masterpiece, "Under Two Flags," will bring to the Egyptian Ronald Colman, Claudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen and Rosalind Russell. And there'll be a Disney opus, "Mickey's Grand Opera." Matinees continue at 2.15 daily during the summer.

Ranger Lodge Boys
Find Maine Woods Stirs
Up Great Appetite

The immediate and current interest in sports seemed to lean very strongly toward softball, for there was a game in full swing most of the afternoon. Jimmy Dykes, Jr., hit a beautiful three bagger and Steve Schoff, one of our loyal junior counselors hit a ball over the mess hall for a home run. Four o'clock Saturday afternoon found the entire camp splashing around in the lake and the response to the call for supper was so prompt it was startling.

According to Ranger Lodge tradition, "Pop" Fowler had arranged for a spectacular display of fireworks which made our Fourth of July complete.

Eagerness to embark in the canoes and rowboats found some ardent sailors out on the lake early Sunday morning, which dawned clear and brisk. Final touches were put on the arrangements for the activities to commence at the beginning of the week and enthusiasm on the part of the campers in the various lines of sports was not lacking. Johnny Heymann checked over his very complete array of angling equipment and the Clausen brothers prepared to get into shape on the tennis courts, which will be in perfect shape by the beginning of the week. Johnny Sellers, who is the official "weather man" for the camp, consulted his barometric instruments and informed us that we were due for some rain sometime Sunday afternoon. The accuracy of his forecast was proven by the arrival of some thunder showers late in the afternoon. Dick Blue and Boyd Brodhead refused to believe that the storm would last and sure enough, the rain blew away and swim period found the boys eagerly awaiting the opportunity to pass their swimming tests. Bugler Ralph Moss was his usual prompt self and supper time brought the campers down to the dining hall, each with a letter which he had written home. The change of environment from highly civilized communities to the Maine woods brings about marked changes in the appetites of the boys which was very evident in the concentrated attention which accompanied the eating of the evening meal. The entire camp assembled after supper and sang old camp songs and became generally acquainted with one another and with the counselors. Thus, the curtain rang down on the first week-end of what is going to be a very enjoyable and very successful camp season.

Adults who wish to travel in a similar way may use the last page of the summer issue of "The Owl Suggests," the Library's monthly reading list. The June number contained a guide to book travel in Philadelphia, Canada and the British Isles. July's number will contain similar suggestions for Europe.

"The Fireside Shelf" came into existence at the library during the last week. It is designed to bring together readable books from all parts of the library. Many books originally written for and read by adults have been gradually appropriated by the children and are frequently found only in the juvenile department. Such as Robinson Crusoe and David Copperfield. Adult readers who might be interested would miss them unless they asked the library staff for them. Also younger readers coming into the adult department for the first time have difficulty in making a choice from the host of adult books. "The Fireside Shelf" may be described as a shelf of "Books you may have missed." It includes both adult and juvenile titles, fiction and non-fiction, new and old, which may be read by members of the adult department. The collection will change constantly, so that a book to be found there today may not again appear on the Fireside Shelf for many months.

Music at Presbyterian

The adult choir of the Narberth Presbyterian Church will sing "Incline Thine Ear," by M. M. Ippolitoff-Ivanoff (1859), during the Sunday morning service.

In the evening, the High School choir will sing "Seek Ye the Lord," by Dr. J. V. Roberts. Benjamin Marshall, of the adult choir, will sing the tenor solo.

not nearly enough, and it's a pretty poor director who does not give such a prima avis pretty nearly all the latitude his assertive personality calls for.

The heavy barometer kept the aerial pieces closer to earth than usual, but there was no harm done, except it might be said our fine firemen were not of very considerate service to the owner in rushing so quickly to the empty derelict house next to the Narberth Theatre, where a smoldering remnant had landed on the roof, and where it made a feeble effort to start something. If it had only been allowed to get a full head, we rather imagine we might have secured a robust donation which would have made the general collection for 1937 entirely unnecessary.

If you gave towards the cost, you can be happy—if you did not give, reflect on what was gained despite not doing so, in this nice neighborhood affair, and learn what you will by a review of this Second Edition of the Honor Roll:

Sells Republican "Dollar Certificate"

A State-wide campaign to enroll voters in the "Dollar Certificate" movement was launched recently when the first certificate was purchased by Jay Cooke, treasurer of the Republican Finance Committee of Pennsylvania, 1607 Walnut Street. Mr. Cooke is the great-grandson and namesake of the distinguished Civil War financier. The pretty worker who solicited the dollar is Mrs. R. B. Fidler, of Wynnewood, Pa., symbolizing "Republican Womanhood" of Pennsylvania. Ten thousand volunteer women workers, under sixty-seven county leaders, will be trained to take information to the voters about registration and voting dates and places and facts about Governor Landon and Colonel Knox.

Officer Hurt: Cynwyd Man Arrested as Hit-Skip

Accused as a suspect in the hit-and-run injury of a Lower Merion Township policeman Tuesday morning, Fred C. Schadrack, of Penarth road, Cynwyd, has been held in $1000 bail for a further hearing by Justice of the Peace Howard Meredith at Ardmore.

Policemen James Shaw and Millard Dickie testified they arrested Schadrack in his car in the driveway of his home about two hours after the accident. Schadrack was sleeping and appeared to be intoxicated, they alleged.

The injured policeman, John "Perk" Scott, West Manayunk, was struck at Levering Mill road and Bala avenue while riding a bicycle. He was treated at Bryn Mawr Hospital for severe cuts and bruises. He was unable to attend the hearing.

-SPORTLETS-

Defeat of the Union Fire Association of Cynwyd team last week by the West Manayunk Field Club, 7-4, virtually clinched first-half honors in the Twilight League for the latter. But the Yunkers received a jolt from St. Luke's Tuesday night, 2-1, while Cynwyd's firemen were downing the Narberth Boys' Club, 7-5.

Cynwyd Juniors hit a winning stride this week, downing the Marple Presbyterians, 12-3, in a junior league tussle. Kase held the Churchmen to four hits. Phizemayer and Keers for Cynwyd each got three safeties.

Bala Golf Club caddies defeated Wilmington Country Club's caddy team, 8 to 2, at Bala. The match was the third between them, the two previous having ended in 5-5 ties.

Information that Russell S. Callow, Bala-Cynwyd rowing coach for Penn., would resign his job proved unfounded. He was just "disgusted with conditions," particularly with the Schuylkill River mud.

Gene Davis' Narberth team won its series with Phoenixville Tuesday by a 9-5 score at the borough grounds. Ralston, Fox and Gazella led the attack with a total of seven hits, including three for extra bases.

Fund, pension and special accounts; the Pennsylvania Company for Insurance and Granting Annuities and the Bryn Mawr National Bank, general, special, and buildings and grounds accounts.

The Philadelphia National Bank was made the new depository of the general account to a maximum of $350,000.

Necessary repairs to buildings and equipment were authorized and a few changes made in the awarding of contracts, due to errors on the part of contractors in listing their bids.

Consideration was given to the proposal of H. S. Farquhar, engineer, that oil burning plants gradually replace coal furnaces now being used in some of the school buildings.

Monthly meetings of the Board in the future will be held on the third Monday instead of the second Wednesday. The next regular meeting of the Board will be on Monday, September 21.

New American Home Under Way in Brookline

According to Judson C. Burns, local distributor for General Electric Refrigerators and other household appliances, Brookline is soon to have its first "New American" Home. It is being built by Stephen Shifter, prominent suburban builder, for A. G. Kiser.

The kitchen may no longer be called the "Woman's Workshop" for in this "New American" Home there is a General Electric Kitchen scientifically designed and equipped with such electrical appliances that hard manual labor is banished forever.

There is the new General Electric refrigerator that may be had in either Monitor Top or Flatop Model, with all the newest improvements including forced-feed lubrication, a feature that spells longer life, quieter operation and lower operating costs. Then there's the General Electric Range that saves so much time.

And not to be outdone by these other appliances the General Electric Dishwasher comes into its own after dinner. No fuss, no mess, no bother. All the dishes are placed in the Washer and at the turn of a button they are washed and dried in a jiffy.

Of course, there will be Summer-Winter Air Conditioning and modern General Electric Automatic Oil Heat. No new home would be complete without these comforts. Coal shoveling, heater tending, dust and ashes are banished forever in the "New American" Home.

Built of stone, this home will be completely insulated and damp proofed, following a unique wall construction developed and adopted for many years by the builder.

It is of Colonial farm house design.

New Rabies Case

On the final day of the Lower Merion-Narberth dog quarantine a new case of rabies was reported by Dr. S. B. Apt, Cynwyd veterinarian. Owner of the dog affected is Mrs. Richard Chew, Conshohocken State road, Bala-Cynwyd. The animal was bitten in the neck by a stray terrier May 20. The terrier was later killed by Patrolman Brady Utz on Dudley avenue, Narberth.

Will Stay as Coach

R. S. "RUSTY" CALLOW of Bala-Cynwyd, rowing coach at the University of Pennsylvania, who denies reports he is planning to resign, but who reiterates he is "disgusted" with rowing conditions on the muddy Schuylkill River.

The funeral of George Elton Snyder, 71, was held last Friday afternoon with interment private.

Make Preparations for Flower Show

The Annual Fall Flower Show sponsored by the Woman's Club of Ardmore will be held at the club the latter part of September. All flower lovers of the Main Line, amateur or professional, will have a chance to exhibit their choicest blooms, for which prizes will be awarded the individual having the best specimen in each particular class.

The committee, of which Mrs. Cecil H. Vaughan is the chairman, is planning a very large show, in which there will be a number of new classes.

BEETLES ARE OUT

Each year the Japanese and Asiatic Beetles become an increasing problem to gardeners because of the ravenous feeding of these pests on the foliage of many kinds of plants.

A new pamphlet on the effective control of Japanese Beetles has just been published by a company located in the center of the beetle-infested area. Anyone interested in obtaining a copy of this booklet may communicate with Mechling Bros. Chemical Co., Camden, N. J.

Two of the best products on the market for effectively controlling Japanese Beetles are Japtox and Oleate-coated arsenate of lead, either of which can be easily mixed with water and applied to trees, shrubbery and plants.
